Devonshires

Devonshires is a leading UK law firm, known for its progressive approach and collaborative working environments.

Location: Leeds

System: Type 80

Client: Design Tonic

As part of a wider office fit-out, Design Tonic was tasked with creating a space that could adapt to the firm's evolving needs.

The brief was to balance openness with the ability to create private, focused areas when required. To support this vision, Movawall was approached by Design Tonic to deliver a flexible partitioning solution within a key meeting space.

The requirement was to maximise the usability of a primary meeting room—allowing it to function as a single, larger space for group sessions, while also enabling it to be divided into two smaller rooms for simultaneous meetings.

Acoustic performance, ease of operation, and a refined, design-led finish were all critical to the scheme. As a result, Movawall supplied and installed a Type 80 movable wall system, providing a robust and highly adaptable partitioning solution.

A key feature of the installation is the Crevin Sacco fabric finish, carefully stretched over a slim 12mm frame. This delivers a clean, contemporary aesthetic while enhancing acoustic performance—softening the space visually and audibly.

The fabric introduces texture and warmth, aligning with the wider interior scheme developed by Design Tonic.

The completed installation provides Devonshires with a highly flexible meeting environment that adapts effortlessly throughout the day. Whether hosting larger collaborative sessions or multiple smaller meetings, the space can be reconfigured in moments—supporting both functionality and user experience without compromise.
