Menzies LLP

Menzies LLP required a meeting space solution for its London HQ office that would provide privacy and acoustic separation while maintaining the openness and natural light of the wider workplace environment.

Location: London

System: Type G100

Client: 3-Space (UK) Ltd

As part of the office fit-out project, workplace specialists 3-Space (UK) Ltd approached Movawall to deliver a glazed movable wall solution.

The objective was to create a flexible meeting room positioned along the perimeter of the open-plan office, allowing the space to remain visually connected to the surrounding workplace while still providing a dedicated environment for meetings and collaboration.

The system needed to maximise light flow throughout the office, complement the modern interior aesthetic, and deliver a refined, high-end appearance consistent with the wider fit-out.

Movawall supplied and installed a Type G100 glazed movable wall system, designed to combine flexibility, transparency, and acoustic performance within contemporary workplace environments.The system creates a defined meeting room space while preserving visual openness between the perimeter room and the adjacent open-plan office.

The glazed panels allow natural light to travel freely throughout the workspace, helping maintain a bright and connected environment while still providing practical separation when required. The installation features a sleek black framed glazed finish, providing strong architectural definition and complementing the contemporary material palette used throughout the office interior.
